

2. At the end of the article.

Content Format

When preparing your article think about its readability. Long screeds of text usually switch the reader off. It's better to break text up into shorter paragraphs and use bullet points when providing lists. You can check the readability of what you've written by using the Flesch-Kincaid reading ease score (this is optional.)